Thank you so much for buying volume 13. When I run into my friends who aren't a part of the manga industry, I'm impressed by how hard they work. And those with kids? I've heard some wild stories... Parents are amazing...

Hajime Komoto made his manga debut with the hit series Mashle: Magic and Muscles, which began serialization in Weekly Shonen Jump in January 2020.

STORY

In the magic realm, everyone is capable of magic, and your skill at it (or lack thereof) determines everything. Deep in the forest lives a boy named Mash. Daily training has turned him into a god of physical fitness, but he has a secret—he can't use magic! In the magic realm, that's cause for extermination. To keep his secret under wraps, Mash enters magic school with the goal of earning the title "Divine Visionary"—one chosen by the gods. Luckily, his exceptional strength helps him hide his lack of magic from the world. That same strength has finally brought him here—to the Divine Visionary Selection Exam!

Innocent Zero and his eldest son, Doom, show up at the tail end of the exam and steal the Wand of Beginnings. Innocent Zero will begin his attack in 30 days, on the night of the eclipse. To gain even more power, Mash undergoes hellish training at the hands of Adam's third disciple, master magic user Meliadoul! Dot, Lance, and Finn undergo training of their own under the direction of their Visionary allies. With only two days to go, Innocent Zero sends an army of demi-humans to attack humanity! It's a crisis of epic proportions, but Mash's training has worn him down to nothing! Meliadoul winds the key of life to restore him to health, but will he recover in time?

LANCE CROWN

A powerful pretty boy who ranked first in the entrance exams. Loves his sister a little too much.

FINN AMES

Mash's roommate. Comedic foil and Mash's very first friend.
